Star's Annual Free Event to Be Conducted Four Days at Saenger

2 HOURS EVERY DAY Theater and Merchants Co-Operating in Treat for Housewives

Mrs. Kate Stafford, nationally known cook, arrived in Hope Sunday from Hot Springs where last Friday she closed a successful Cooking School for the Sentinel-Record and New Era newspapers.

Mrs. Stafford, who is stopping at Hotel Barlow, will open The Star's fourth annual Cooking School at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Admission is absolutely free, the School being given by the newspaper, the Saenger theater and co-operating merchants featuring food and other household supplies.

4 Days Beginning Tuesday The school will run four days, ending Friday, from 2 to 4 o'clock every afternoon. The lecture-demonstration, to be held in a model kitchen on the stage of the Saenger, will open at 2 o'clock, and will close promptly at 4 o'clock. Co-operating with The Star and the Saenger are a score of local merchants and national food advertisers. Every housewife in the Hope territory is extended a special invitation to be our guest at the annual free feature.

The Star launched the Cooking School the spring of 1929. This is the fourth one, and the crowds have come on in increasing numbers, registering an all-time record last year with nearly 2,500 women in attendance during the week.

Our guests are urged to bring a note-book and pen. Mrs. Stafford, like the Cooking School instructor of 1929-30-31, will have plenty of new recipes you will want to copy.

Manager Elmer Hecht, manager of the Saenger, has announced that matinee performances at the theater will be cancelled from Tuesday through Friday as in years past when the Cooking School held forth.

Family Night at Saenger

As an advance feature, however, Manager Hecht has announced this Monday night will be family night at the Saenger, an entire family being admitted for one 50-cent ticket. Edward G. Robinson and Loretta Young are appearing in "The Hatchet Man," Chinese drama of long war.

In the Cooking School, Mrs. Stafford will follow the same procedure observed in previous schools here. She will announce the day's recipe, and will then prepare the actual dish in her model kitchen on the Saenger stage, carefully explaining each step in its preparation.

Two Men Burn to Death in Car Wreck Unidentified Pair Crash Into Bridge Fleeing in Florida

DOTHAN, Ala.—(AP)—Two unidentified men sped to their death in a stolen auto near Bonifay, Ala., early Sunday as the machine crashed into a bridge and caught fire.

A motorist near the scene of the accident said the car passed him at terrific speed and crashed head on into a bridge railing and immediately the wreckage was enveloped in flames.

Persons attracted to the wreckage by the screams of the trapped men were unable to approach it because of the intense heat. The cries of the trapped men could be heard for several hundred yards.

Sheriff Barto Driver of Bonifay, finally approaching the blazing wreckage and dragged one man from it, but he was dead. Only the torso of the other man remained after the blaze was extinguished.

Officers said a number of the cans in the smoldering wreckage indicated that the men may have been running whisky, and that the liquor intensified the flames.

The car was stolen from W. L. Fitch here Saturday afternoon and officers said the two men probably hid in this vicinity until dark.

The bodies of the men were brought here from Bonifay, but none of the hundreds of persons who viewed them could identify either.

The auto hit the bridge falling with such force that a portion of it was driven clear through the car. A part of the bridge was destroyed by fire.

Paul Shiver, 12, Is Fatally Burned in Bon-Fire at Home

Third Child of Same Family to Die a Violent Death in 8 Years

SCREAM UNNOTICED

Barking Dog Finally Attracts Attention of the Family Sunday

Paul Shiver, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Shiver of East Avenue C, was fatally burned while playing about a bon-fire in the yard of his home Sunday.

He died early Monday morning. Paul was the third child of the same family to die violently in the last eight years. Two years ago his brother Louis fell off a truck and was crushed to death on a city street, and eight years ago his sister Mary died when she mistook poison for candy.

Playing at Bon-Fire Paul had been amusing himself by boiling water over a fire in the yard Sunday morning when his mother interrupted his activities to carry him off to Sunday school.

He returned home and resumed his attention to the fire. A short time later the family heard him scream, and heard a dog barking excitedly, so a moment they paid no attention, thinking the child was merely playing.

Then they discovered that his clothing was on fire. His mother rushed him on the ground and tore the clothing away—but he was terribly burned. The family never did know whether the child carried gasoline to the fire or not, but his injury was swift.

Dies Monday Morning Paul was treated by a physician at home Sunday afternoon, but Sunday night was removed to a hospital. He died about 5 o'clock Monday morning.

The funeral service is to be held at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, with Dr. W. R. Anderson officiating. Burial will be in Rose Hill cemetery. Men teachers of the public schools are to act as pallbearers.

Former Hope Man Put in Charge of Camden's Evening Daily

Roy Allen, for 22 years associated with Ed McCorkle and the old Star of Hope organization, became general manager of the Camden News Monday.

Mr. Allen left Hope the spring of 1930 to become mechanical superintendent of the Adams Printing company at Pine Bluff. Last year with his brother Cameron Allen, of Camden, he purchased controlling interest in the Camden Printing & Stationery Co.

Mr. Allen will manage both the newspaper and printing concerns, which are separate enterprises, however.

In his announcement at Camden, C. E. Palmer, publisher of the Camden News, said: "We feel sure Mr. Allen will handle our business to the satisfaction of our readers and advertisers."

Mr. Allen also was associated with Alex. H. Washburn, publisher of Hope Star, for a short time after leaving Mr. McCorkle in the spring of 1930, but determined to return to the job printing field, and joined the Adams company at Pine Bluff.

Mr. Allen and his brother, Cameron Allen, visited in Hope Sunday.

Secret of Happy Marriage Found By Sen. Caraway in 'Old-Fashioned' Rules

By Sue McNamara

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Two rules for successful marriage are suggested by Mrs. Hattie Caraway, first woman ever elected United States senator.

"One rule is to realize always that the other partner to the marriage contract has outside interests. The other is for the wife to believe in and respect her husband's judgments and decisions."

Though she holds one of the most advanced and modern positions in official life, Mrs. Caraway has very "old-fashioned" ideas regarding marriage.

"Married couples make a mistake in trying to corral every bit of each other's time and personality," she says. "They should have mutual aims and companionship, of course, but they should also respect each other's individuality and freedom."

"A wife who really thinks her husband is always right has smoothed away many marital difficulties. Of course, a woman should marry a man for whom she has respect and admiration in the beginning."

In her senate office, with mail stacked around her and three men secretaries and stenographers at work in an adjoining room, Mrs. Caraway occasionally slips back into memory of her 20 years of married life.

Nothing pleases her more than a compliment for the late Senator Thaddeus Caraway. She likes to recall little incidents in his political life.

"He would do a favor for a man he personally disliked if he thought the man deserved it," she says. "He was always impartial and fair in his decisions."

The little black-gowned senator is showing something of her late husband's firmness in dealing with problems which beset her. She has refused decisively to make any speeches via platform, radio or news reels. She believes it would be in poor taste so soon after her election.

She will not espouse purely "woman's legislation" just because it is such, though she was besieged on taking office by groups of women championing various measures.

Now they have all fallen back, the movie men, the women lobbyists and the politicians, leaving her pretty much alone to concentrate on her work. She is satisfied.

She goes home at night to the big house in Maryland known as the Lord Calvert mansion, which she has occupied for years. Two sons, both in the army, live with her. A faithful negro servant runs the house.

Sometimes they have hot biscuit, the kind the late Senator Caraway liked. And much of the time the talk is of "Dad."

Four Types of Offense Used by Notre Dame Five

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(P)—Four types of offense were used by coach George Keagan in his basketball campaign this year. The Notre Dame quintet also used two types of defense.

One type of offense combined a pivot-center with the cross-court game, the pivot man under the basket acting as the top of a pendulum while two men swung back and forth across the court with the ball like the weight of a pendulum.

Occasionally the modern professional type of offense was adopted, the down-court men remaining stationary instead of swinging back and forth. Keagan's old style of cross-court game occasionally was employed, while the delayed offensive was used a few times. In one game three types of offense were used.

The Ideal "Dad"

PARENTS usually have plenty to say about the shortcomings of their children. The youngsters, though, don't often get a chance to express themselves about their parents.
 The other day, however, children in a middlewestern school were asked to write compositions on the general subject, "The Kind of Dad I'd Like to Have." And the things they wrote might provide a good many fathers with some useful hints.

It's a wistful, pathetic little list, really. Here are some of the things the children put down:

"I'd like my dad not to laugh at me when I do things.
 "I want my daddy to be kind and cheerful and kind to mother and everybody.

"I don't want my daddy to whip me when I don't mean to do it."

"I want him to give me a chance to explain."

"I don't want my dad to holler at everything."

"I want a daddy the fellows like so we can have a club
 in our basement."

"I want him to be able to fix things and make things."

Those are representative samples of the kind of desires of school kids expressed; and, really, they form about as much a set of injunctions as any mortal could be presented with. It's amazing, when you stop to think of it, how little our children demand of us.

What would be required of a man to score 100 per cent on that list? Simply that he be decently kind, good-natured, tactful and understanding; that he be likable enough so that other children will like him; and that he have some rudimentary knowledge of how to repair those little defects that are constantly developing in a boy's toys.

That, surely, isn't asking an awful lot, is it?

To win and hold the love and admiration of a child is the easiest thing on earth. Your youngster doesn't ask that you be brilliant, successful, wealthy or clever. The standard that is set for you is so pathetically simple. Wouldn't you feel ashamed if you ever failed to measure up to it?

That New Hampshire Primary

THE results of the Democratic presidential primary in New Hampshire have not only stirred up new talk about the probable outcome of the summer's Democratic convention;
 they have also emphasized the way in which the presidential primary has failed, in recent years, to function as it was meant to.

New Hampshire's primary election did give the voters
 a chance to express themselves on two of the outstanding Democratic candidates; but there were plenty of avowed candidates whose names weren't placed before the voters, and in most states the voters won't even get the chance the New Hampshire voters got.

In state after state, the primary this spring is simply going to be a form; uninstructed delegations will be chosen, or delegations pledged to some "favorite son" who doesn't pretend to stand a show of being nominated. As a result, the ordinary voter will have very little to say about who is nominated in Chicago.

Sales Tax Facts

WHEN the manufacturers' sales tax comes up for discussion, you might like to mull over some figures recently submitted by the People's Lobby, at Washington.

Pointing out that this tax is designed to raise around $55,000,000, the lobby reminds us that in 1930 there were 736,357 Americans whose incomes were more than $5000 apiece. These incomes totaled $10,198,000,000; and the men who draw them would have to spend just half of that on manufacturers in order to contribute as much as $100,000,000 under this tax law.

That, obviously, leaves something like $450,000,000 to be collected from the people who earn less than $5000 a year.
 The lobby estimates that fully $200,000,000 of it will be paid by those earning less than $1800 a year.

Unless those figures can be controverted, it will be hard to make the sales tax look like an equitable measure.

Commercialism at Its Worst

If there exists, anywhere, any sort of booby prize for those who most callously disregard the privacy and the feelings of other people, it ought to go to those New Jerseyites who tried to make a little easy money by offering to fly sightseers over the Lindbergh estate near Hopewell, N. J., for $2.50 apiece.

Duplicates of this prize, by the way, ought to be struck off for all the people who accepted the proposition and spent $2.50 for the privilege of being carried over the estate. Those people, beyond doubt, would have been happier if they could actually have been escorted into the Lindbergh home, so that they could have epoked their grubby fingers at Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh at close range. As it was, they had to be content with a distant view; but it may comfort them to know that they have earned the contempt of decent folks.

House-Cleaning Is Due

THE only cure for bad government is to bring the cost of it home to the taxpayers with such force that they will rise up in anger and demand a change.

If I were the banking dictator of Chicago, appointed as a committee of one to rescue that city from the disgrace of unpaid municipal employees and closed public schools, my first act would be to levy a double assessment on every taxpayer—and let the voters work out their indignation at the next election.

Whether consciously or not, Arkansas seems about to follow the same idea.

The legislature has been called in special session for this Tuesday. The State Highway Department finds that it has 11 million dollars indebtedness falling due this year, and only 9 millions revenue with which to meet it.

Among the proposals to bridge this 2-million-dollar gap is a 7-cent tax on gasoline.

The readers of this newspaper will recall that I forecast a similar disaster as long as three years ago, unless the state headed off the highway department raiders who picked up road funds and used them for other purposes.

It is given out in the publicity surrounding the special session that the emergency is the result of insufficient revenues. I don't believe that. And I don't think the people do, either.

No matter what the tax on gasoline, Arkansas wouldn't have enough road money to pay her road debts so long as from a quarter to a third of her road revenue is drawn off by the county judges, the penitentiary farm, and various other branches of state and local government. But the greatest of these evils, is the county judge organization which has bled the highway fund for between 2 and 3 million dollars a year ever since the creation of the Martineau road program.

My readers will recall that operating on a cash basis,
 without anticipating one dime for future road construction, the Harrelson road law levied a 3-cent tax on gasoline. But modern roads can't be built on a cash basis. I know some folks disagree with me on that—but they're wrong.

A state can't build concrete highways at $30,000 a mile out of current revenues any more than a $3,000-a-year man can build a $3,000 house and pay cash for it. Both the state and the individual have to hypotheate part of their current income for a fixed number of years in order to complete any undertaking.

That was why the Martineau road law, adopted in 1927, increased the gasoline tax from 3 to 5 cents. It was a legiti-mate increase.

The first two years of its operation found the law successful. Then the legislature began to cave in before the demands of treasury-raiders. Notable among these were the county judges.

Down through the years when the state was floating bond issues the judges knocked down 12 1-2 per cent of the bond money presumably to build local roads with. A few did build roads. But the great majority chucked it away on rabbit-trails, hiring day labor, grading dirtroads—working like sin for election day.

They called this money "turnback funds"—meaning that the state gave it to the counties and kissed it good-by.

In Hempstead county it averaged $28,000 a year. Hemp-stead already had $17,000 a year from her local 3-mill road tax—a total highway revenue of $45,000 annually.

The county judges had persuaded the 1929 legislature to increase their salaries again. Some years before, the judge of Hempstead county drew $1,800 per annum. It had been increased to $2,400. But in 1929 it was put up to $3,000.

By the time the 1931 session came around, even in a county like Hempstead with road revenues alone of $45,000, the judge complained that he couldn't pay himself this new high salary.

The County Judges association, therefore, met in secret session at Little Rock just ahead of the regular session of 1931 and voted to bull-doze the legislature into increasing the gasoline tax from 5 to 6 cents, and give the extra cent back to the county judges.

This the legislature did. Hempstead county's road revenues jumped another $17,000 a year, Judge L. F. Higginson cut the wages of his road men, was able to pay himself his new high salary of $3,000—and everything was lovely.

Everything was lovely—until the central government, which had been bled white by these treasury raiders, collapsed under a mountain of indebtedness for which there was once provided adequate funds to pay it down.

I say to you there is no use raising hell with the state government as long as this condition exists at home—and it is with a sense of eternal justice that I have directed the fire of this newspaper more often at a rotten local condition I knew about than at a distant scene whose rottenness I could only guess.

Mark this: The counties passed their bonded district debt over to the state, which then bore all the bonded road debt of both counties and state—and then, having kicked their debt out of the back door, the county judges proceeded to shake the state down for part of that very revenue which was to pay off both their own and the state's debt.

The figures concerning Hempstead county I have obtained from the local county judges during the past three years, coming down to as late as last December.

You will hear it said by paid organization workers that the reason the judge won't talk is because "The Star won't print it."

Point the man out to me and I'll brand him for the liar that he is.

All we're after is the facts. This newspaper has repeatedly asked Judge Higginson to make a statement on his road revenues, his salary action and his policy toward the wages of road-workers—but he never has delivered it.

Arkansas is going into a grave financial crisis. Some of us have been shouting in the wilderness—but it looks now as though the people are about to see a great light; and if there is silence now, there will be talk a-plenty before the next campaign is done.—W.

Police Halt Gold Mining in Australian City Street

BENDIGO, Australia.—(AP)—Police
 here were alerted when two young men with stiff brooms began sweeping a street, but they didn't do anything about it until they found the energetic pair cradling the dust and getting gold!

The road apparently had been surfaced with crushed rock containing pay ore.

The police stopped the urban prospectors under a law which makes it an offense to remove the surface of carriage roads.

The average man would not be affected by the proposed $5 a barrel tax on beer. His production seldom gets that far ahead of consumption.

A half frozen man picked up in Baltimore had more than $1500 on him.
 Would you call that cold cash?

Origin of Corn Plant Still Object of Search

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(AP)—Ruins

El Dorado Couple In Murder, Suicide

Barber Kills Wife and Then Himself After Drinking Bout

EL DORADO.—As the climax to an all-day spree in celebration of their reunion after a month's separation, H. H. Green, 42, a barber, shot and killed his 30-year-old wife in a rooming house here Sunday night and then fired a bullet into his brain. He died 30 minutes later in a hospital.

The only witness to the double tragedy was little Peggy Green, five, daughter of the couple, who ran from the room screaming that "Mama grabbed the pistol and papa took it away and shot her." Coroner T. B. Barton pronounced it a murder and suicide.

Laverne and Marvin Griffith, sons of W. S. Griffith, proprietor of the rooming house, said they heard sounds of a struggle in the Green's room but were unable to hear any of the conversation. The Green had been living together about a week following their separation. Police found a half-gallon of whisky in the room. Both the wife and Green were shot in the temple.

Peggy was sent Sunday night to the home of a Mrs. Milam, daughter of Mrs. Green by a previous marriage. Another daughter is said to live in Longview, Texas.

No insight into the cause of the fatal quarrel had been obtained Sunday night. Police said they would not investigate further.

Still Healthy

JUDSONIA, Ark.—(AP)—Few persons live to celebrate their 104th birthday. Fewer still possess a third set of teeth.

But Mrs. Caroline Reynolds, who lives here, recently celebrated her 104th birthday. And she gained her third set of teeth more than two years ago.

Mrs. Reynolds, who was born in White county, 12 miles west of Searcy, February 28, 1828, is still active. She never wears glasses and her hearing is excellent.

Deserted by her husband before the birth of their only child, a daughter, Mrs. Reynolds earned her own living and reared her daughter, who died shortly after reaching young womanhood.

Throughout her own childhood she aided in work on her father's farm and in housekeeping.

Two years ago she began suffering with her gums and became convinced she was afflicted with a bad case of neuralgia or rheumatism. At the end of two months she discovered to her amazement that she was growing a full set of new teeth.

They're Principals in Love Drama

Used to Remove Hitch in Batter's Swing
CINCINNATI, Ohio.—(P)—Taking a lesson from the book of rowing coaches, the Cincinnati Reds' manager, Ben Chapman, is using a mirror to remove faults in the swing of his star batter, Babe Ruth. Chapman thinks he has found the key to Ruth's batting. Ruth, one of Cincinnati's stars in the outfield, batted under a mirror. Although his speed in the lineup, a hitch in his swing prevented him being of great value. As the coach, Chapman couldn't see the hitch. Then Chapman bought a mirror and told his players to practice before it. All of a sudden, Chapman reports that the hitch is disappeared.

$10,000 Gesture by Capone From Prison
CHICAGO.—(P)—Al Capone of the South Side, from his county jail cell, yesterday offered a reward of $10,000 for the return of the Lindbergh baby and the capture of his kidnapers. "It's the most outrageous thing I ever heard of," said Capone, whose name several times has been mentioned in Chicago abductions. "I know how Mrs. Capone and I feel. If our son were kidnapped, I'd sympathize with the kidnapers. I'll give $10,000 for information that will lead to the recovery of the child unharmed and the capture of the kidnapers. If I were out of jail I could be of great assistance. I have friends all over the country who could aid in turning this thing down." Capone has been in the jail for more than four months, awaiting appeal to the higher courts of his $30,000 bond. He is serving a life term for income tax evasion. His lawyers have said he is without funds.

Battles Eagles

Spotting some eagles attacking a band of mountain sheep, Mrs. Griffith Lloyd of Colorado Springs, above, well known aviatrix, dove her plane toward the slopes of Pike's Peak to frighten off the birds. Instead, they attacked her, following the plane to 15,000 feet. One eagle swooped into the cockpit, battering Mrs. Lloyd and Stuart Wandell, veteran pilot, riding as passenger. Mrs. Lloyd regained control as the ship went into a dive and finally escaped.

BOSTON—(P)—The captain and crew of the ill-fated Collier H. F. Debardeleben, who were rescued early Thursday morning from their stricken craft, arrived Sunday aboard the British freighter Laganbank.

Captain Knight and his men were reticent to discuss their adventure. It was learned, however, from members of the crew, of the Laganbank that the rescue was effected without incident after a lull in a three-day gale.

All members of the collier's crew were to remain in Boston until Monday when U. S. inspectors will hold a hearing.

Two Noted Italians Are Linked in Romantic Tale

ROME—(AP)—The names of a titled young Italian, the Marchese Lorenzo Solari, and Alicia Rodgers, granddaughter of the late American ambassador to Italy, were linked in a tale of romance Sunday night, but official information was limited to conflicting statements from their families.

The family of the 18-year old Alicia said the couple ran away last Wednesday and added they would be married as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made.

The lad's father, head of the Marchese interests in Italy, insisted his son had not run away, and that there would be no marriage.

What happened between Wednesday and Sunday was obscure, but apparently the couple, if they did run away did not wed, and both were under their respective families' wings.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
